An adaptable lamp collection with an intuitive design

Hat is named after its recognizable silhouette. The collection includes both pendants and linear lamps in various sizes. Common for both variants is the distinctive conical shape of the lampshades, which emit a generous beam of direct light downwards from each lamp. The design is simplistic and clean, providing an intuitive indication of how the light is emitted. A column of light extends from the lampshades, showcasing the design process where functionality has paved the way for the design idiom.
