THE MOOR RUGS

BY ALL THE WAY TO PARIS

&TRADITION LAUNCHES THE MOOR RUGS, A SECOND SERIES OF RUGS DESIGNED BY ATWTP.

2016

Inspired by the vast, heather-covered hills in the countryside of their native Scandinavia, The Moor rugs by All The Way To Paris capture the ambience of the landscape. "This collection of rugs focuses on texture, shape and depth of colour – not patterns," explains Founders and Partners Tanja Vibe and Petra Olsson Gendt. "Our intention with the rugs is to gather a room together both emotionally and aesthetically. To create a feeling of closeness and to somehow 'ground' the room."

Seen from above when you arrange the rugs all together, the sense of scale disappears and the effect is a subtle glistening cluster of gemstones. A striking fusion of classic geometric gemstone cuts expressed with graphic simplicity.

In keeping with the moor theme, enjoy an array of rich colours symbolising the sky, rays of sun and the natural surroundings across the landscape. Starting with a beige for the drops of dew, grey moss and red for heather, as well as midnight blue. All with a very slight touch of shimmer.

For an extra velvety feeling, ATWTP used a special hand-woven technique found in hand-loomed rugs from the Middle and Far East. "In doing so, ATWTP have brought the past back to the present," adds &tradition Brand Manager Martin Kornbek Hansen. "It is one of the cornerstones of our collections at &tradition. We draw on classic craftsmanship to create contemporary products using high quality materials. ATWTP has also brought their penchant for graphic purity to this new series of rugs that both unify and enhance a room."

All The Way To Paris is a Copenhagen-based graphic design studio founded in 2004 by Petra Olsson Gendt and Tanja Vibe.
